Start with a game: Charades

Lists of words/phrases for a quick game of charades are easily found on the internet. If you have trouble finding some, try this link: <https://www.thegamegal.com/printables/#word-lists>

To share with your child:

Our actions sure do say a lot about us whether we want them to or not. Of course when we play charades all we can rely on are our actions. The truth is, people who do not know us or get a chance to talk with us only have our actions to go by when drawing an opinion of us. We may say that isn't fair. We may even say that we don't care. But we certainly should care. We should care a lot.

Read Mathew 5:14-16

Jesus teaches us that we should make sure people see us, and that they see us acting the right way. It does no good to turn on a light and then cover it up. Our actions and behaviors should glorify God. If the only thing someone knows about us is how we act, we should strive to be sure that those actions point to our love of God.
